Teaching

Introduction to Philosophy

- Taught five times: Spring 2005, Spring 2006, Fall 2006, Spring 2007 and Spring 2008.
- Topics included philosophy of religion, philosophy of mind, scepticism and ethics
- In early years, mainly used readings. In later years, the focus was more on great books, such as Descartes' Meditations and Hume's Dialogues Concerning Natural Religion.
- All the courses were large introductory lecture courses, to between 80 and 150 students, except the Spring 2008 course, which was a freshman Honors seminar.

Introduction to Logic

- Taught four times: Spring 2003, Fall 2008, Fall 2009, Fall 2011.
- Topics included validity and soundness, the predicate calculus, models, and proofs in propositional and predicate logic.
- The courses had no pre-requisites, and focussed on continuous assessment.
- All the courses were large lecture courses, with 80 to 100 students.

Intermediate Logic

- Taught four times: Fall 2001, Fall 2002, Spring 2004, Fall 2004.
- The course was on predicate logic, from introduction to the proof of completeness.
- The courses had between 20 and 40 students.

Advanced Logic

- Taught four times: Fall 2000, Spring 2002, Fall 2003, Fall 2009.
- Topics varied, but included non-classical logic, modal logic and the incompleteness of arithmetic.
- All courses were small graduate focussed courses, with 5 to 10 students.

Philosophy of Language

- Taught twice: Fall 2001, Spring 2003.
- Topics included reference and description, implicature and vagueness.
- Course was a small undergraduate seminar, with some graduates sitting in, with 5 to 10 students.

Decision Theory

- Taught four times: Spring 2000, Fall 2004, Fall 2008, Fall 2011.
- Topics included probability and utility functions, paradoxes of decision theory, game theory and collective decision making.
- Courses were targetted at juniors and seniors, with between 5 and 20 students.

Undergraduate courses taught just once (all student numbers approximate)

- History of Political Philosophy, Spring 2001, 50 students
- Time Travel, Fall 2003, 20 students
- Mid 20th Century philosophy, Spring 2005, 5 students
- Applied Ethics, Summer 2005, 40 students
- Semantics, Fall 2007, 5 students

Graduate Seminars

- Intuitions, Fall 1999
- Vagueness, Spring 2002
- Conceivability, Spring 2002
- Philosophy of Economics, Spring 2004
- David Lewis, Spring 2006
- Dissertation Workshop, Spring 2008
- Probability, Spring 2009
- Scepticism, Fall 2010
